

About Us

We employ only Master Mariners and Chief Engineers that have the requisite skills for the type of work we conduct, individuals typically having served for several years as a senior officer on crude and product tankers. Our staff is hand-picked and fully trained in inspection practice before they conduct independent work in the field for our clients.

Â

Our management team is composed of both marine and quality assurance professionals, who are all ISO qualified Lead Auditors, our training programme includes a requirement that all our management staff achieve this qualification.

Â

The overriding commitment to quality management within our organisation has facilitated the creation of superior services that we believe are unmatched by our competitors around the world.

Â

The services we provide are based on tried and tested procedures, which over the years have been revised many times, consistent with the process of continuous improvement. We deliver, where others have failed because we are motivated to excel in all aspects of our business.

Â

Our company logo "Delivering Quality" aptly expresses our culture and the self belief we hold in our ability to provide the highest standard of customer service.

Â

We are also technical authors and have a proven track record in researching, designing and writing technical manuals for use in the petroleum or marine environment.
